

Afghanistan in Phase 5 – US Withdrawal strategy

Afghanistan in Phase 5 – US Withdrawal strategy The US military's withdrawal from Afghanistan is in accordance with phase 5 of modern war strategy according to the educational film "Modern wars: How do they work." The fact that the U.S. withdrawal is taking place shortly before the 20th anniversary of 9/11 consequently not only helps to further cement the Taliban-lie around 9/11, but phase 6 is opened up as well: The world population is supposed to be craving for total control. – Afghanistan is not an oil producing country, coincidentally however it is hyper-rich in lithium, the "new oil" for any kind of e-mobility... But who is going to get a hold of it? Red China or the Deep-State billionaires from the Green Deal and thus E-business ...? One thing remains certain: The refugees are those "we will get a hold of" ...

The U.S. military is pulling out of Afghanistan shortly before the 20th anniversary of 9/11. The dreaded and seemingly all-powerful Taliban are back in power. Oh horror! - A shock sweeps the world: Who is able to defeat the strongest nation in the world twice, is the question now. Very coincidentally just in time for World Humanitarian Day, the appeal of humanitarian organizations all around the world resounds: donate money to Afghanistan and urgently open all borders for the refugees. That's the call, Afghanistan needing more help than ever. Of course, very understandable on the one hand. In an almost anticipatory obedience, the German Foreign Ministry - tattaaa – announced immediate emergency aid of 100 million euros - well, the Germans have it, you know.

Among the 17 aid organizations that are shouting in unison are of course the vaccine-lascivious WHO and the UN Children's Fund. As we all know, if you desire to reach a goal, children are undoubtedly the most effective means for propaganda. But is this really all about propaganda again? Do we no longer trust any catastrophe, we would need to ask ourselves. Before we find judgement, let's take a closer, more detailed look at the matter:

At least according to our educational film "Modern Wars: How do they work?" (www.kla.tv/8040) the withdrawal of the US-military from Afghanistan is in precise accordance with phase 5 of modern war strategy. Do you understand? A withdrawal with the strategic goal that the previously controlled country would deliberately descend into total chaos. The fact that the U.S. withdrawal is taking place shortly before the 20th anniversary of 9/11, compellingly results not only in the further cementing of the Taliban-lie surrounding 9/11, but it is also opening up phase 6: And, in this film, what is phase 6 aiming at?

The world's population is meant to watch the Taliban dramas unfold anew - it is supposed to suffer through all the terror shocks of 9/11 yet again, almost as if in time-lapse - to the point, let's say, when all women in the world fear being locked up in dark holes in ankle-length robes and black scarves wrapped around their heads. Do you understand? This is all being hyped up now, this fear, this panic. Until the whole world is screaming: help! Who can fight with this beast? Christians, pay special attention to this sentence.

After all, now that the Taliban have annihilated the world's strongest protecting power, have brought them to their knees for the second time, it makes them appear invincible. This is how they are being hyped up now and they themselves are puffing themselves up. So, in other words, the world is supposed to desperately be craving for total control of Afghanistan.

Afghanistan as an exception is not an oil producing country, coincidentally however it is hyper-rich in lithium. What is lithium, you may ask. Lithium is, so to say, "the new oil" for all e-mobility. You see, this is where the whole thing becomes really thrilling, because automatically the question arises: Who is going to get hold of all that "electric gold" or "electric oil" down there? At least China has already announced its interests very clearly. And China is still deeply communist, deeply red, you know. But with absolute certainty, all the Deep State billionaires will certainly not have overlooked what mineral resources are lying dormant in Afghanistan. Because, after all, it was the Green Deal sharks we learned from in the first place that the business of electric cars, etc. does depend on the kind of "fuel" that is called lithium. At least Elon Musk, the space junkie and Tesla electric car manufacturer, will certainly not have remained unaware of these mineral resources. After all, he has shown himself to be a constant secret influencer of world politics. That's the way we know him. With his tactics, Musk, as you know, was even able to increase his fortune by another U$137.5 billion in only twelve Corona months right at the beginning! This man knows his business. Do you also understand what's going on here?

The most exciting question at this moment now is: Will the Masonic Deep-State masterminds of China or their opposing U.S. Deep-State multinationals take hold of the, let's say 'lithium flood' - or will they fraternally share the pie?

As a conclusion so far this at least is certain for sure: Our share of the full cake will once again only be the flood of refugees. In other words, the hybrid war continues, it again gathers momentum - especially against us Europeans again. In this whole Afghanistan withdrawal scenario, by the way, a remarkable parallel to the so-called downfall of the USSR together with its communism, can be seen. For this had been a strategic downfall having been planned jointly by high finance and Marxism. We have to understand that.

In other words: Ever since communism existed, strategic moves of high finance together with Marxism have been taking place. The uninformed will of course object at this point: High finance and Marxism are enemies, completely different things. I tell you, no, this is not the case. Please allow yourself to be set straight at this point, all of you who might think this way. Marxism is a deliberate spawn of high finance to strategically establish a world government, two sides of the same coin. Until today, nothing with that has changed.

- And here is the parallel again with Afghanistan: At the beginning of the 1950s, the Soviet Union was completely devastated economically.
- Because of its military inferiority to the West and the Western working class not being fond of having a class struggle, the strategy for a weaponless warfare simply was developed.
- The old Chinese strategist Sun Tsu, centuries ago, had already provided the strategic foundation for this hybrid warfare.
- However, Soviet warfare, from the very beginning, was based on deliberate deception and imperceptible disintegration of the Western enemy: Hybrid warfare, hidden warfare.

The goal was clearly and firmly defined: A communist world government. That is it. Now, how is that supposed to work, a layman would ask. It is very simple:

- The strategy that was supposed to lead to this goal began with pretending one's own downfall, pretending one's own weakness, the downfall of communism as a strategy, you see? One has to understand the way this works. Well, what are we talking about here today? We are talking about the strategic downfall through the withdrawal of the US superpower because of the apparent superiority of the Taliban. Let's go back therefore to the downfall of communism with its parallels. There you can easily see parallels:
- At the same time back then, the deliberate long-term communist strategies were already operating, namely the infiltration of the West including its re-education that's what is behind it. But how is that, one asks again. By means of propaganda, of course, how else?
- Everything was happening strategically and from the inside, no longer with any traditional weapons of war, but with ideological weapons, you could say, hybrids.
- In case these would prove to be insufficient, though, they of course always carried the tried and tested means of war – everything there is – sort of "loaded in their pocket". That was it. These, however, just as backup, in case the underhanded coup should not succeed.
- The West was completely blind for this ruse and strategy of war and up to this day that is still the case. Totally parallel things are going on again right now.
- The new Soviet long-term strategy at that time had four successive phases. You can say, 4 phases, but only a single goal: A communist world government! That was the goal.

Phase 1 included a phase of relaxation at the beginning. This made the West receptive to the whole of what would then follow from Red.

Appalled, Nikita Khrushchev began to publicly distance himself from Stalin and his genocides as early as 1956.

- After a party congress decision, however, everything was done to convince the West of the quasi "weakness" of the Eastern bloc.
- There was cooperation, dialogues, trade, everything was literally regained by stealth in this hypocritical way, if you will.
- The Eastern bloc began to pretend its weakness by trumpeting the inner split of the communist world everywhere.
- This way, the West was supposed to lose all its fear of the red danger, along the lines of just look how tame the USSR has suddenly become.
- But then, however, deliberately, a controlled opposition was built up in order to achieve this. This opposition raged boldly against the ruling government in all states of the Eastern Bloc.
- And at the same time this secretly controlled worldwide rebellion against the Kremlin took place, while it was being propagated, every genuine anticommunist opposition power was forcibly suppressed and eliminated, removed.
- The core and goal of this self-steered opposition, however, were these:
- They demanded neither the immediate or absolute end of Soviet communism, nor an approval of the free market economy as we know it here.
- But precisely such demands came from the real opposition, from the real oppositionists.
- Whereas the self-formed opposition simply demanded a gentle revision and further development of communism, sort of a more humane version of Marxism, of course not under that name.

Then in the second phase, the West was destabilized.

So, while the controlled opposition everywhere in the West was proclaiming how weak and torn the USSR was, in the background they started the targeted hybrid warfare according to the guidelines of Lenin and Trotsky. So to say, the old Sun Tzu.

- Put simply this means: The imperceptible decomposition from within has begun because it's acting insidiously from the inside.
- Ideological re-education from the bottom up, it was propaganda without end.
- And everything according to the pattern of the Great Reset known today and the Agenda 2030, as we have presented on Kla.TV.

- However, the fact that the Kremlin has always had powerful friends and comrades-in-arms in the West was proven by the awards given, for example, to Andrei Sakharov in the USA and Europe.
- Nobel Peace Prizes to those who promote the hybrid war in secret, you know?

And then comes phase 3. In phase 3, the downfall of communism was feigned. Pretending downfall - that's the theme, that's the parallel today with Afghanistan. You pretend a downfall, a decline, a weakness.

And then like a messiah, CPSU General Secretary Mikhail Gorbachev entered the political world stage. His task was to liberalize the Soviet Union, to tame it, in front of the whole world.

- However, even during the constant hype of perestroika, the complete opposite of what the world community believed was achieved:
- So this means, communism was neither abolished, nor tamed, but rather sneakily introduced into the West through the back door. That's how it works, you see, when weakness is feigned.
- The communists actually hid their secret quite openly, quite impudently, because perestroika means nothing other than transformation or restructuring.
- In other words, Marxism was not to be ended, but merely polished up a bit, restored.
- The horror image of communism was to disappear all over the world, but in parallel the Marxist concepts were to be introduced underground in the West and become a lasting dominant.
- These creeping concepts of communism are being lauded these days under the terms we have already got used to, Stakeholder Capitalism, Great Reset, etc. They are virtually pretending the golden age with its solution of all social problems is coming through these.

And in this way the communist strategy is realized:

- It was none other than the KGB that built up this targeted opposition many years ago.
- Gorbachev then quasi wholeheartedly endorsed these dissidents and gave them direct access to state radio stations, etc.
- This way, the secretly sponsored oppositionists were given generous opportunities in public to raise objections, which were then generously acted upon.
- So it was through these dissidents that Western opinion was deliberately shaped and consolidated entirely according to and in the spirit of Sun Tsu, but also Lenin and Co. I do not have to list them all.
- Then, since 1991, after the successful pretended fall of the Eastern bloc, the West was an open field for any kind of infiltration, any kind of influence and of course espionage.
- You see, this hybrid war-strategy, war-move of the socialist indoctrination camps has insidiously transformed our Western society so that the ideologies of Marx, Lenin, Engels, etc. are more present today, more desired than ever.

• But no longer under the misunderstood generic terms "communist, Leninist or Marxist" - precisely therein consists the Trojan ruse.

Right now we are in phase 4, that is, the introduction of world communism. I always emphasize, when I talk about world communism, you must always see both, high degree capitalism and communism.

Now in our days, in other words, the long-term strategy of the Soviets begins to bear fruit.

- The desired world government is to be enforced now with all means, whether politically or if it must be, militarily.
- In the current phase the capitalist system is supposed to be portrayed as stranded, as failed and dead. Compared to Afghanistan again: the U.S. superpower has failed, means it is at its end. Here you can learn that if this is drummed into people's minds like this, the exact opposite is the case.
- In order to accomplish this, the current severe world economic crisis with all its mass unemployment already served this purpose, the whole poverty put on scene, conjured up, so to speak. It's all part of the same thing.
- So, through the insidiously conjured up collapse of the middle class, and broad sections of the population with it - like we are currently experiencing - quasi the failure of capitalism is supposed to be put on display and proven. Do you see these parallels?
- In this way, a political system is to be imposed on our Western world, which at first does not have the particular smell of Soviet communism that we are familiar with -
- one would hardly accept such without resistance.
- This is precisely why all the new terms are suddenly being bandied about, such as: Stakeholder Capitalism, Public-Private Partnerships, New Deal, Green New Deal, Great Reset, etc.
- In the embellishment of this neo-Marxist model, China and Russia are suddenly handed a significant role, if you pay attention.
- This is also the reason for the active participation of these two great powers in the WEF in Davos with its Great Reset, and so forth.

I summarize:

The multi-level strategy of hybrid warfare that I just pointed out was strategically built as early as the 1950s. And with Afghanistan ... 2001 ... all these parallels.

- The hybrid war strategy of that time is, I emphasize again, a joint strategy of high finance and Marxism, whose goal is an absolute world government. I repeat, High finance and Marxism, are and have always been, in other words, just two sides of the same coin or medal. That is why we must suspect or recognize these two elements also in the whole Afghanistan withdrawal show.
- Communism in its entirety with all its manifestations like Marxism, Leninism, Maoism etc. have always sprung from the workshop of high finance. It is time this is recognized. You must not forget this.

- High finance as the secret head of world communism, has always clearly understood how to eliminate all its own potential opponents by using exactly the bona fide communists. It was only necessary to make it clear to them that the capitalist opponent was the middle class, for example, the rich factory owner, etc. in their environment. And immediately these agitated proletarians began to clench their fists and to rise and demonstrate against their own bread suppliers.
- With the targeted covid-plandemic in which we find ourselves right now, the cunning hypercapitalists are trying to deal the final death blow to the entire middle class right now.
- Too late, all the well-meaning Marxists, Communists, Greens, Reds, etc. will realize that they have only been deceived by high capital for centuries, have been deviously abused, one can also say instrumentalized.
- With their really necessary fight against false capitalism, but unfortunately on the wrong level, as just explained, they have delivered themselves and the middle class the coup de grace.
- In short, on the home straight of this ancient strategy, the West is to be completely starved and dismantled politically and economically.
- China, on the other hand, is to be built up with Russia's support. That is the plan behind it. And above it stands, as said, high degree capitalism. Here in the background especially the divided Freemason world lodges, you could call them super lodges, are jockeying for first place. This is going on in the background. Keep this in mind: The Deep State is deeply divided but herein also lies the chance for the world community.
- Future world decisions by means of these united bodies are to stand on the foundations of the ancient Marxist forces.
- So this whole parallel between the currently feigned weakness of the US superpower in Afghanistan and the former Soviet Union teaches me one thing above all, and here I come to the conclusion:
- I actually see only one remaining means left to deal with these devious forces: I say, let us all learn to pray again. Let us pray that these great powers will not be able to send us yet again into their wars, but that their heads, that is to say their leaders, will finish each other off - that is their job, to eliminate each other - and that we will emerge as winners from this final battle of the devious masterminds - yes, we, the people!
