Ebola vaccine - curing or lethal?

Hello and welcome back to today's media commentary

- "Ebola vaccine - curing or lethal?" The reports concerning Ebola, dominate the mainstream media. Canada has reported being able to deliver the first Ebola vaccine to the WHO. This will be administered soon. However since reports have been amassing of cases, in African countries, where - more and more often - due to the injection of Ebola medication the symptoms of Ebola initially break out and then patients die, we should take a reminding look at the numerous similar events from the past. In August, 2013 for example, in India, Bhutan, Sri Lanka and Pakistan many children died, due to a World Health Organization vaccination program against childhood diseases. In India the program was stopped as a result, but due to pressure by WHO representatives, implemented again and after further deaths stopped a second time. Interestingly this particular vaccination has not been approved in any industrialized countries yet was recommended for impoverished third-world countries. In July, 2013 the American CDC - Center for disease control admitted having vaccinated 98 million Americans between 1955 and 1963 once or repeatedly against polio - but with a vaccine that had been laced with a cancer causing virus. It is estimated that 10 to 30 million Americans received this contaminated vaccine. During the mid-1970's a vaccination disaster happened in America. On orders of the CDC and President Gerald Ford, Americans were urged to have themselves vaccinated against a deadly swine-plague epidemic. Around 50 million panicked due to this and received early vaccinations, which caused dramatic side effects in 20 to 40% of those vaccinated, amongst others paralysis and death. The bitter irony was that only a few cases of swine-plague broke out. A team of Danish re-searchers investigated more than 15,000 women and their babies, between 1990 and 1996 in Guinea-Bissau, in order to find out which long-term affects vaccines have on children. They came to the alarming results. Amongst the children who had received the classic vaccination, twice as many had died by the next control visit as those who had not been vaccinated. In the 90's due to a WHO initiative millions of women between the age of 15 and 45, in Nicaragua, Mexico and in the Philippines, were vaccinated against Tetanus. Men and boys in contrast were not vaccinated. A Catholic lay organization noticed this and had the vaccine investigated and tested. It was laced with a hormone which causes pregnancies to abort and sterilizes women. Remember also the "swine-flu" of 2009. The vaccine was implemented early and without sufficient clinical testing due to the pandemic-status declared by the WHO. Verifiably this vaccine caused Narcolepsy in children and rising percentages of miscarriages in vaccinated pregnant women. Also the medicine Tamiflu, which was recommended and introduced by the WHO during 2005 due to the bird-flu, caused in Japan alone 12 deaths and 32 cases of encephalitis. Valued viewers currently the WHO would like to introduce and implement another new vaccine - this time against Ebola. In light of the facts just listed, we should seriously question what the real goals behind this vaccination are! Our media commentary: "Attacks against Ebola helpers - two counter-voices from Africa" sheds more light on this and delivers some answers. Keep yourself updated on Ebola and other topics.
