

Hong-Kong's residents understand Strategy of Umbrella-Revolution

With headlines saying “More Democracy and Freedom” many so-called “colour revolutions” were launched during the last years in several countries.

These revolutions all followed the same pattern. At first the desire for change was instilled in the people. But instead of creating good innovations with combined efforts the people were being agitated against one another. This became very obvious in the revolutions of the so-called “Arab Spring”. Interestingly enough, all these revolutions were orchestrated and supported by foreign secret services, primarily the US secret service. Please watch our broadcastings “Mod-ern Wars: How Do They Work?” from October 2, 2014 and “How the US-Government Makes Use of Terror” from September 26, 2014”.

The colour revolutions destabilized the countries by sowing seeds of discord. They overthrew the actual governments, but they were in for a shock thereafter. Instead of the expected freedom through more democracy they found themselves under a Western controlled government, which approved of plundering the countries' re-sources. Politically and economically their situation had worsened more than ever.

Obviously the people of Hong Kong learned from these bitter experiences of other countries. Only two months ago the so-called Umbrella Revolution started in Hong Kong, which called for more democracy. Tens of thousands of people were demonstrating in the streets. It quickly became known that the initiators of this revolution came from abroad: The USA played a role in helping to build and direct the Occupy Central protests in Hong Kong in order to destabilize and eventually weaken China economically. It is not about democracy. Kla.tv reported about it on October 25, 2014 with the broadcast “Hong-Kong: Umbrella-Revolution Initiated by the USA.”

Mainstream media only reported that Hong-Kong's residents were fed up with the protests. The reason being traffic jams and road blocks.

The mainstream media however did not report that Hong-Kong's residents obviously have understood the aim of the Occupy-movement.

Most of Hong-Kong's residents are against more demonstrations. According to a survey of Hong-Kong's University, 70% of Hong-Kong's population are for an end to the protests. The probability of the USA having a success in Hong-Kong or elsewhere in China through a colour revolution has sunk.

Russia also learned from current history and has prepared. According to Russian president Vladimir Putin, Russia is going to do everything necessary so that nothing similar ever happens in Russia. At a meeting of his advisory Security Council in Moscow on November 20, 2014, Putin said: "We see what tragic consequences the wave of so-called colour revolutions led to.

For us this is a lesson and a warning. We should do everything necessary so that nothing similar ever happens in Russia."

Dear viewers, this shows that timely and well-founded information can protect from danger in the long-run. You can assist by telling others about these broadcasts or those of other enlightenment-movements. It is worth it! Have a good evening!
